

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PROBLEM1. Busy individuals and the elderly often forget to take their medications on time.2. People struggle to find personalized diet plans tailored to their specific health goals like weight loss or diabetes management.                                                                                     | SOLUTION1. An automated, time-based medicine reminder system with inventory tracking and refill alerts.2. An AI-powered agent that generates personalized, goal-oriented daily diet plans.3. A central API to manage all user health data and orchestrate the agent services. | UNIQUE VALUE PROPOSITION1. Implemented: A time-based medication reminder system with automated refill management.2. Implemented: Personalized diet guidance that considers Vegan/Non-Veg preferences, allergies, and health issues.3. Future Scope: Interactive reminders, real-time adaptive coaching, effortless grocery shopping integration (Blinkit, Zepto), and detailed vitamin tracking. | UNFAIR ADVANTAGE1. 24/7 Availability: Health management is handled by automated AI agents.2. Hyper-Personalization: Diet and reminders are tailored to individual user data.3. AI-Powered: Core logic is driven by intelligent agents, not static rules.4. Free to Use: Core features are available for free, creating a low barrier to entry. | CUSTOMER SEGMENTS1. Reminder Users: Busy professionals, students, and elderly individuals (Ages 15-55).2. Diet Users: Health-conscious individuals and those with specific dietary needs (Ages 16-65).3. Early Adopters: Tech-savvy users managing chronic conditions, fitness enthusiasts, and caregivers. |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | KEY METRICS1. Monthly Active Users2. Number of App Downloads / Website Visits3. Number of Premium Subscriptions4. User Reviews & Ratings                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | CHANNELS1. A web application.2. A Progressive Web App (PWA) for a native-like experience on Android devices.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| EXISTING ALTERNATIVESGeneric reminder apps (e.g., Medisafe), manual alarms, diet blogs, consulting with nutritionists, and fitness tracking apps (e.g., MyFitnessPal).                                                                                                                                                | HIGH-LEVEL CONCEPTA smart health companion that automates your diet and medication schedules.                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | EARLY ADOPTERS1. Tech-savvy individuals managing chronic conditions.2. Fitness enthusiasts and biohackers who are actively tracking their macronutrients and looking for an AI-powered tool to optimize their meal plans.3. Caregivers (e.g., adult children of elderly parents)                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| COST STRUCTURE1. Development Costs: Initial setup of the backend, agents, and frontend.2. Hosting Costs: Servers for the backend and database.3. API Calls: Costs associated with using Google AI/LLM services.4. Maintenance Costs: Ongoing updates, bug fixes, and support. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | REVENUE STREAMS1. Banner Ads in the free version.2. A subscription model for premium features (e.g., ad removal, multi-day diet plans).3. Affiliate links for commission from pharmacies (1mg) and grocery delivery services (Blinkit, Zepto, Swiggy Instamart).                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

